PRAISE FOR JOURNEY OF JUSTICE

"This year long curriculum and programming has fundamentally changed the way our youth ministry thinks about mission in the church.

Through thoughtful consideration the curriculum is able to use Scripture, history, and current events to shift how we view our neighbors and how we may better serve them. As a youth director I could not be more thankful for the materials provided by the professionals at YMCo that allow us to have deeper and more meaningful conversations. The curriculum is honest about the ways in which we have fallen short as a Church in the past but offers hope and a better way forward. Without partnering with Bill and YMCo we would not have been able to engage in these critical dialogues in the same meaningful way."

-Levi Bannerman, Director of High School Youth Ministry
White Memorial Presbyterian Church Raleigh, NC

"I think the program is very beneficial because it allows us to hear other people's viewpoints and opinions on current and past events. It has been interesting to see how our faith plays a role in viewing the events of today and how current events play a crucial role in our faith as well."

-Elizabeth (youth)

"This program allows for youth to learn more about topics relevant to events happening in the current society. It equips them with knowledge to better understand the world they live in and others living in it. It creates a space where youth are comfortable expressing their thoughts and opinions."

-Marshall (youth)

"It offers a space for youth to talk about and digest the events occurring in the world around them. The leaders create a sense of openness that aids in the flow of conversation around tough topics. It bridges the gap between society today and the word of God."

-Grace (youth)
